PROJECTS

Studi Fenomenologis tentang Pengalaman Resiliensi Psikologis Mahasiswa Ibu dalam Menghadapi Tantangan Peran Ganda

Oct 2025 - Jan 2026

I, along with six other student-researchers, did a study that aims to explore the experiences of psychological resilience among female student-mothers at Universitas Esa Unggul's 'Kelas Karyawan' Program in navigating the challenges of dual roles between academic demands and maternal responsibilities. A qualitative approach with a phenomenological method was conducted to understand the subjective meanings constructed by participants based on their lived experiences.

The Art of Seeing Me: Self-Guide Handbook on Self-Worth

April - June 2025

This handbook thoughtfully explores themes of self-worth, self-acceptance, self-love, and emotional healing. Spanning 124 pages, it is written to offer readers a safe space to embark on a courageous inward journey, one that invites them to look beyond others' opinions and rediscover themselves in a healthy and authentic way. It emphasizes gentle, compassionate reflection, mindful exercises, and meaningful self-discovery practices that help readers to cultivate confidence and build a strong foundation of self-worth. As of the time this CV is made, the physical prototype has been printed and it is in the process of being published as an e-book.

Perjalanan Alya: Psychoeducative Interactive Game on Anorexia Nervosa

April - June 2025

Perjalanan Alya is an interactive choose-your-own-path game developed as a group project for the Psychopathology course at the Faculty of Psychology, Universitas Esa Unggul. The project aims to enhance understanding and raise awareness about eating disorders, with a particular focus on Anorexia Nervosa, a condition that remains heavily stigmatized.
